The Grace of Patience.

Our text this morning is comprised in the head line given above. The inspiration is furnished by the recent heavy blow delivered at our indus-tries by the devastating floods. Too many men are prone to abandon hope altogether, as soon as they experi-ence a serious check. We are of those who hold on as long as reasonable who total one as long as reasonate hope remains, and who only give up when the last hope is gone. While this is the case, we do not believe in the policy of concenling the worst, or of drawing false conclusions from existing facts, simply as a matter of policy. In other words well the truth.

policy. In other words "tell the truth" of the disaster sustained by this region in the recent great flood. It is a dreadful one, and we will not be able to fully estimate its entire force until the waters subside, and not then fully. It will remain to be seen if the overflow will not create sickness, such as will seriously interfere with the operations of the season. The spark of comfort so far, is found in the comfortable fact that the wheat, where the comfortable fact that the wheat. the comfortable fact that the wheat, oats and corn on the uplands have susoats and corn on the uplands have sus-tained far less injury than was at first Let no man deceive himself. We can have so long enjoyed an uninterrupted prosperity, and in such immense quantities that they have but fittle patience when the time arrives to call out the quality.

In Texas we are a great lot of grumblers but we have known the people to behave very well indeed under the pressure of great troubles, and we averet them to do so now under this expect them to do so now under this must follow along with his operations and restore the original crop or plant something else. This would consti-tate the very highest grade of the double standard. In this policy the west will be strongly sustained by the south. Up to this time the south has re-mained quiet under the announcefactory policy. It pays no dividends. It only entails losses. Instead of sitting down supinely and bewalling the the better way is to put up other fences and plant either corn or cottonnot suppose that they are the only victims, and conclude that the devil is after them specially and person-ally with a sharp stick. While they are undoubtedly the heaviest losers, bankers, business men and mechanics of Waco suffer to the extent that

The whole business policy of the country must PARNELL'S mother is to be sold be changed. The farmer who saw a new barn, an improved resper, finer stock and a better house looming up as a concomitant of the prosperity promised by the excellent crop out look of a few days since, perhaps daughter just entering womanhood was to be sent off to a finishing school, or a son to college. This is rent free this season, is above all life when the time can never be re-trieved. Think you not that all this LEWINE BROTHERS don't seem to requires patience? Aye! more than mind the hard times. They have patience, it requires both religion and philosophy as well. A man must be a stole indeed who can sit down and calmly witness the destruction of his hopes, of his fields and growing crops, and few men are stoics when their own interests are concerned. They can only be indifferent where other than themselves are involved. The caper is Colorado now is for each mine owner to have a newspaper of his own to puff the property, but we like the disaster. There is but one way, other.

Immediate Necessity.

Summer with her hot sun is upon ation. If that will outweigh the imbent remains to be seen. It has a very interesting race. It all sorts of impurities, such as decaying animal and vegetable matter held in solution by the vast pools of stormof the real objections to its ruthless invasion of the field of its neighbor at Dallas. It jumps upon ephemeral and foolish objections, however, with crushing force. The News may not be a very great or a very able paper, but it is very adroit.

All. Colorado armed with Winchesters assembled at her southeastern border to prevent the driving of healthy Texan exitie across her territory, and with out-atretched hands calling for help from the south to beat back the anti silver force:—is a sight at which the gods weep, and yet it is an all true picture we draw.

pools, water-holes and filth piles, and thus stop the dangerous fermentation already commenced and hold it what it is now until means are devised to get rid of the mass altogether in some sensible and practicable way. After the city has done what it may in this way, the council can order that each householder sprinkle quick lime all over his premises or wherever there is anything decaying or likely to affect dangerously the public health. It is necessary. It is imperative, and the best of it all is it will cost but very little and can be applied immediately.

Jackson's Art Emporium.

Times are light 'tis true, but the caving for the beautiful is just as strong as ever. Recognizing these facts, Mr. W. 19. Jackson appears before the public in the role of a philanthropist, and a practical philanthropist, and a practical philanthropist at that. He has gone over his large stock of brica-a-brae and object of vertu, applying the pruming knife to his emporium on Austin street will both gratify and astonish you Why not render bleak walls, and unlaten tables objects of beauty. little and can be applied immediately. There is immediate and pressing necessity for the measure. Let no one deceive himself. A terrible calamity is our motto. Now there is no sort is thus impending unless prompt and of sense in under-estimating the force efficient measures are at once resorted to. Our excellent city physician Dr. Snead will doubtless underwrite this suggestion.

The interests bound up in and dependent upon a clean bill of health for Waco the coming summer are too grave, too vast and by far too valua-ble to warrant the taking of risks of supposed.

The people of this favored section have so long enjoyed an uninterrupted prosperity, and in such lumense countries that they have been seen as the second of the means to be used to effect our escape that the second of the means to be used to effect our escape.
